LAUNA FLUNKER

Laura, I've been here since I've moved we go into our little argcements (sometimes not so little). Only one more year, and to have super fun in almost anything we do. Including tennis and you crying to learn to clap (that was classic)
 I'm glad that were "into" asking what honesty can bring you huh? This summer will be great we'd be a better excuse for going there. Oh well! Thanks for everything & (especially the talks!)
 Love always,
 Denise

Laura, you are a really sweet person. Thank for helping me out that time when I didn't work out you're a really good friend. Have fun this summer! Hope I will see you

Argonaut Staff

A teacher, as defined by Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary: is one that teaches especially one whose occupation is to instruct. Does the Argonaut staff live up to this definition? Well, according to Brian Whaling (Sophomore) "most of the teachers do live up to the definition but some of the teachers don't make jokes. They just teach. Mara Pooler (Senior) feels that the teachers do live up to the definition because they all take time to help a student when it is needed. Cecil Felkins (Junior) says that he has learned a lot since he has been here at Argonaut. He said that the staff do indeed live up to the definition of a teacher. Shannon Landis (Junior) sums up the staff in one word, "unique".

Floristry And Ceramics

Floristry is an agriculture class. The class provides training in the basic concepts and skills required in the floral industry. Ceramics is a studio class providing in-depth study and work in clay.

Boyd Warren (Senior) and Jonni Earl (Sophomore) work on their ceramic projects.

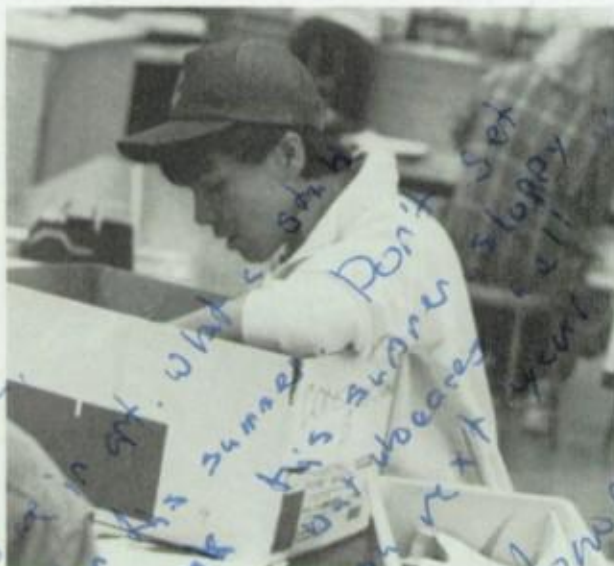

Ms. Cox is helping Vicky Mendoza (Freshman) finish her corsage, which will be given to teachers.

Art And Design

Design and Art are both considered Fine Arts. Design provides a basic experience in dealing with the principles of design as the basis for all art activity. Art is an appreciation course that provides fundamental concepts, backgrounds, and experiences in visual expression.

Junior Honorato (Junior) is looking for a particular art pencil.

Ms. Peterson supervises as Freshmen Patty Jones, Melanie Giannini, and Karen Nityangkul refinish furniture.

Auto And Metal Shop

In Auto Shop automotive tools, machines, test instruments, maintenance and remedies for common troubles are studied. The experiences gained in Metal Shop provide an opportunity for students to explore the possibility of machine shop as a vocation.

John Trevaskis (Senior) is sure he can get Demian Lindberg's car running.

Mr. Whitaker shows Pam Cochran (Senior) how to check her oil.

Woodshop

Freshmen Sam Wabs and Gerimy Haynes work side by side in woodshop.

There are two levels of Woodshop, Introductory Wood I and Wood II Advanced. Wood Shop I is an exploratory course emphasizing shop safety, hand wood-working tools, and introduction to the use and safe operation of power tools. Wood II allows the student with a definite interest in woodworking to practice and develop those skills necessary for woodworking.

Business

A variety of business classes are offered at Argonaut: Accounting I, Typing I, Computer Literacy and Programming, ROP Computer Applications and Word Processing. This year a new facility and IBM PC System 2 computers were made available by Central Sierra ROP funds.

Freshman Larry Womack and Juniors Robert Woolsey, Frank Weldon, Bobby Langdon work diligently at their computers.

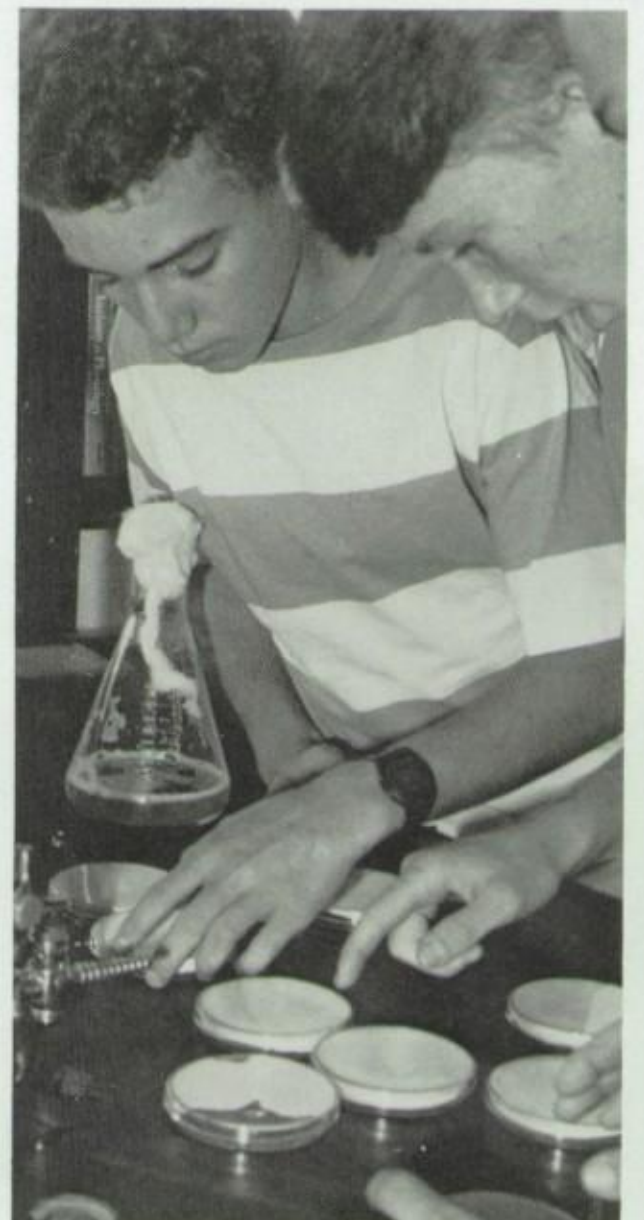

Freshmen Jerrod Wallace, Julie Hackim, Mary Ann Bryan and Beth Allen really know what business is all about.

Lab Sciences

Biology, Biology II, Physics, and Chemistry, are all Lab Sciences offered at Argonaut. Some fun things that all students can look forward to doing in these lab classes are dissecting fetus pigs, watching osmosis in an egg, and mixing many chemicals hoping not to blow up the lab.

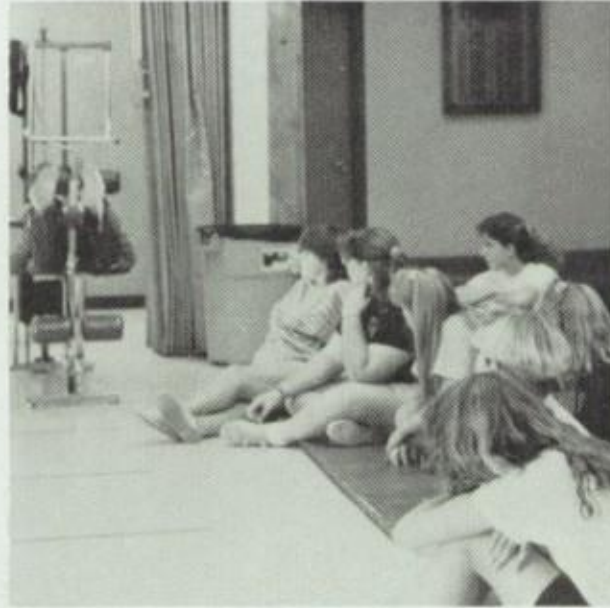

Sophomores Tom Swett and Chad Hansen are trying to decide exactly what they are looking at.

Junior Sharaine Ford looks closely at an organism.

Physical Education

Physical Education is a requirement at Argonaut. There are several games and activities in P.E. Floor hockey, basketball, volleyball, soccer, football, baseball, and the weight circuit are all examples.

Ms. Sierk shows her third period class the proper way to lift weights.

Homer Daniel (Junior) lifts weights as Lewis Campbell (Freshman) looks on.

Launa - you'll have to my demon strator in class next year - especially in floor hockey - glad you were a part of Best w. sps smiling! - always? keep next wave on the Julia Sierk

Drivers Education

Drivers Education is learning which side of the road to drive on as well as behind-the-wheel experience. Included with this class is the basic road sign meanings and how to change a tire. This course is a requirement for all students who wish to obtain their license.

Mr. Collins and Pat Volkmar (Sophomore) are ready for yet another driver's training session.

Flex Your Mental Muscle

Math, English, History, and Foreign Language are all required classes which play a big part in our lives. These classes are not considered "hands on" courses but can still prove to be interesting as well as fun. Picture this: Senior Government Class. Seniors Heidi Hunt, George Berry, and Dan Mondani line up on one side of the room while their opponents Kevin Woodard, Martha Thompson, and Alicia Davis line up on the other. The debate begins. The topic being: gun control. The prevailing side was Kevin Woodard's. Other seniors will remember debating the topics of: Should school end after tenth grade? And one of the most controversial topics of today: Aids. We'll also remember our English classes for the reading of Beowulf, and Chaucer's Canterbury Tales. When Senior Michelle Gonsalves was asked what she thought of the novel Beowulf she answered "Beowulf? Did I read it? I'm sure it was a cute story." The many hours of homework from our teachers will not go forgotten.

Argonaut's Top Guns

We would like to congratulate and commend the Class of 1988 for an extremely successful year. May all your goals and wishes come true. With a positive attitude on life you will always attain your goals and be successful.

Best Wishes,

Mr. Equinoa and Mr. Carder

Our Last Giant Step

"GRADUATION" seems to be what seniors Traci Hansen, Christy Jenkins, Billy Wardlow, and Robert Rafferty feel is their most memorable event of their senior year.

Eddie Bonham believes that Senior Government with Gonzo was a memorable event of his senior year. "He makes the class fun, and not boring."

For Sarah Green, working in the hospital for the ROP training program is preparing her for a job after graduation.

Homecoming and Spirit Week will be remembered by most seniors as the year our class got something other than last place on our float. Many memories have been made this year, memories that will never be forgotten by the class of 1988!

Syndi Smith says her most memorable event is going out with Matt Skinner.

Pressures Build

As Juniors

Step Up

Your Junior year is a year of preparation. You are faced with new responsibilities, lots of homework, a job, insurance payments and more freedom. You feel the pressure of harder classes, getting good grades and entrance scores to get into a good college. When you were an underclassman your head was filled with thoughts of ideal romances, and the party next week. Now that you're a Junior, you realize that there is no such thing as an ideal romance, but still do party and are forced to think about the future. College is an option for many students, but before you can apply for college you have to prove yourself through exams.

The most common exam is the dreaded Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT). Life is becoming more complicated. Yet, at the same time, you are enjoying more freedom. Throughout the year you had an anxiety for the future and what it would hold, now you're just a step away.

Wheels Turn

As Sophomores

Step Forward

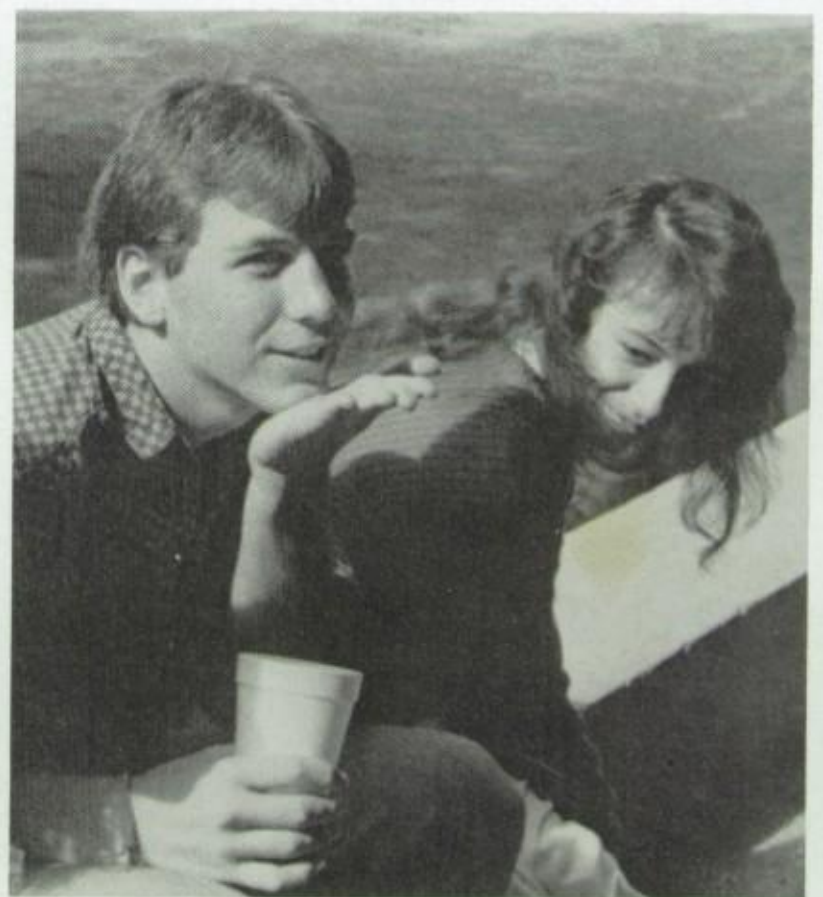

Now that you're a Sophomore you're just one step closer to getting out of high school and there are new worries and concerns occupying your thoughts. Many Sophomores think about the future but your most important concern was passing your driver's test and getting your license. Just the thought of cruising through town without your Mom or Dad behind the wheel was a goal you just had to reach. When the moment came you found your anxiety was for nothing as you held the coveted license in your hand. Another highlight during your Sophomore year was getting your class ring. It is a token of remembrance for the years to come and a life of memories after you graduate. Being better adjusted as Sophomores, you were able to join in and be more a part of the Argonaut atmosphere. After being an underclassmen for two years, it's time to move onward and upward to the kingdom of upperclassmen.

Excitement Grows

As Freshmen

Step In.

You came to Argonaut not knowing who you were or what was in store for you, but after a while you settled into the Freshman life and set goals that you hoped to accomplish before you graduate. During the year you've experienced career classes, different kinds of clubs, rallies, football games, dances, and went through the ever-so-popular Freshman initiation. If you haven't gotten trashed or been given a pink belly surely some teacher has sent you out on a school-wide search for a paper or wood stretcher. Friends are an important part of your high school years. During grade school you were known as one group but now you choose your own friends and create your own identity. Now you've survived this crazy year and you're ready to move up. Just don't forget your good old Freshmen year. Memories of this year will stick with you forever.

The 1987 Varsity Football team was under the guidance of a new coach. Coach Regis Kearney describes the season in this way:

"As the Mustangs struggled in non-league play, learning a new system under a new coach, they were building a foundation that would see them win two league games and finish the season tied for fourth with Amador High.

The Mustangs were led in offense by Juniors: John Pendleton, Mark Olivarria, and Mike Cervi. Defensively, the Mustangs, under the guidance of coach Gary Traverso, were the backbone of the squad, led by Senior linebacker Cory Samprucci and all-league Senior Allen Yoho. The Mustangs were a match for anyone."

The 1987 Junior Varsity Football team was in excellent shape this year. Sophomore Chad Hansen says, "Just playing the game is a great experience. Having the crowd watching makes us try to do better. I like having my parents there supporting me." The team seems to have improved this year and the fans hope for a good year in "88". Soccer

Soccer is a very taxing sport. Players must be in excellent shape and have great stamina to keep the ball rolling toward the goal. This year's team was under the leadership of Coach George Shipp.

Ed Speer, a junior on the team, thought that Coach Shipp was a fun guy. "We enjoyed having him coach us. But I really enjoyed the bus rides!" Ed also enjoyed the team spirit shown after the games when the players would slam into each other and would wear one sleeve rolled up to show team identity.

"It was a very interesting year," said Andrew Smalldon, junior, "we had great spirit and enthusiasm and we had great 'cheerleaders'. Our uniforms though looked more like disco outfits."

CHEERLEADING AS A SPORT

Many people often think of cheerleading as a frivolous sport with no real work involved. But if you have seen the Argonaut Mustang Cheerleaders at work, you know this is a myth. They spend up to two hours each day after school working on routines and getting in shape and ready for football and basketball season. They specialize in getting the crowd enthusiastic and behind our Mustangs. It's very important for the crowd to be pumped up about the game because it makes the players want to try harder to please them.

To make it on the cheerleading squad, each girl had to try out in front of a panel of judges to show their skills, talent, and personality. Therefore, each girl spends many hours preparing a routine that they hope will assure them a place on the squad.

Varsity Volleyball

The most memorable game of the season was against Stagg High School from Stockton. "It was a very stressful game," says Michelle Gonsalves, "but we played well." Julie Carrington feels, "It pumped me up to hear the crowd cheer for us." She was especially surprised to receive the Mother Lode League Honorable Mention. Wendy Brown also received this honor, and Michele Roberts was recognized for Second Team All-League. Coach Sierk remarked, "I enjoyed the improvements I saw in individual players as well as team accomplishments. We had to work very hard to get through some tough times and I hope the players learned positive things from them." The outstanding players were: Lauri Miller, who was one of the "hard hitters"; Wendy Brown, Michele Roberts and Traci Hansen led in blocking with Michele's good passing game and Traci's excellent serving. Julie Carrington did a fine job setting through the season and showed strong improvement the last half of the season. Noele Richmond filled-in at both setting and hitting positions so she was an all-around player. Bench strength came from Teresa Stewart, Terri Grunigen and Nicole Franklin. All three showed improvement through the season.

Coach Julia Sierk serves balls to the players so they can practice returns while Junior Terri Grunigen and Senior Traci Hansen retrieve balls.

Senior Wendy Brown is up for the spike as Senior Traci Hansen observes.

INITIATION!!! Will any J.V. player ever forget it? Andi Greening won't. She remembers "Initiation was a shocker! To everyone! Thanks to Varsity, no man at this school will ask my hand in marriage." Going to breakfast with no makeup on and in night clothes then going to school the same way was one of the worst ordeals the girls experienced. Traci Hansen as a Varsity player remembers forcing players to do "dead ants" and to order at McDonald's with marshmallows stuffed in their mouths.

Freshmen Shannon Brownlie, Sherril Swett, and Sophomore Cheryl Mann practice bumping.

As a team, the Argonaut J.V. Volleyball players did well this year. The girls don't have very much experience so their J.V. years were spent learning many of the things that will get them through their Varsity years such as: how to develop strong team spirit; refining their talents in hitting, setting, spiking and bumping; deciding which positions suit each player best; the best combinations for working together; and learning how to play the game.

Are we having fun yet? Senior Josh Wyckoff says, "As far as I know, we're having fun and improving despite our terrible pre-season record."

"We've had our troubles this year and our record isn't that good but that doesn't reflect the excellent talent we have on our team," says Senior Chris Hall. "This season has been a lot of fun for me and I'm happy to be a part of this team."

"Considering the amount of people they have on their team, they do pretty good," said Sophomore sports fan Jason Lowe. Basketball at any high school electrifies the school spirit, and at Argonaut everyone and anyone can get involved in sports. Sports are the live wires connecting spectators to athletes. Being involved in sports is an exciting way to test your strengths and weaknesses while your self-esteem gets an overwhelming high! Intense training and well developed skill helped the players achieve their goal.

Boys J.V./Frosh Basketball

J.V. Basketball

Apparently the J.V. and Freshmen basketball teams have all the potential of a great team, but since most Freshmen/J.V. years are spent learning; no one expects to start out perfectly. "I could have played a lot better if I'd listened to the other players," stated Greg Broyles. The teams have gone on to defeat many opponents and each game was full of spirit and the inclination to win. They have had an exciting and challenging year under the direction of Coach Rick Smith and have all had the chance to develop and expose their own techniques to produce a good season. The teams promise to be of winning caliber by next season.

Girls Varsity Basketball

The Varsity girls' basketball team was the definition of enthusiasm and hard work. Every team member wanted to be on the court contributing to the total effort. The 1988 team seems to have had it all except for the height. They had to try harder, jump higher and run faster than other teams to compensate for not having the height in their team. "It makes it difficult to screen your opponent or keep them off your back when they are taller but we make up for it in quick maneuvers and good rebounding," says Julie Carrington.

When asked what her favorite part of being on the team was Senior Heather Hunt said, "Defense is my favorite part of the game and it is also fun traveling and being given the opportunity to meet and see new people."

Girls J.V. Basketball

"So far our team has done very well. We have only lost two of our pre season games," says Cheryl Mann. "The hardest thing about being on the team is that we have to work twice as hard this year because we have no height at all. So that means we have to work together more to beat the height of the other teams we play. We are working quite well together."

The team felt that they had great team spirit and were all very proud of each other. Cheering for their teammates while they were on the court or on the bench was one of the ways they showed their pride. Without team pride and spirit, it would've been a struggle to have played the games.

Jenny Daniel rushes in for the rebound.

Wrestling

For many people, wrestling is a misunderstood sport. Wrestling is possibly the fairest of all sports because each competitor wrestles against someone in the same weight class. The team scores as a whole as well as individually. The sport not only requires fitness and strength, but also planning and intelligence. As Sophomore Brian Whaling said, "I like the sense of accomplishment I feel when I've won my match. I know I've done it by myself." The team knows that in wrestling, winning comes from being the one who thinks quicker and moves faster. It can also be a very complex sport because for every move made, there is a counter move. The wrestling slogan, "Genius is 1% inspiration and 99% perspiration" can attest to the fact that a lot of sweat and tears are spent when they practice each day after school. When asked what his favorite part of being on the team was Senior Boyd Warren stated that working out with weights was the best part.

Intramurals

The person who likes competitive sports without all the skill it takes to be on a team can be a part of Intramural Sports. "In Intramurals, little skill is required and the major objective is to have fun and to have 'something' to do during the lunch period. Unless you have a license and leave Campus, there really is a lot of wasted time during the lunch break", says Jerry Gonsalves, coach of Intramurals.

Activities are rotated in a 2-3 week basis. The following sports are provided for all students during the school year.

FALL-	Softball
	Flag Football
	Soccer
SPRING-	Basketball
	Volleyball
	Indoor Floor Hockey
	Prison Ball
WINTER-	Badminton
	Tennis
	Whiffleball

Varsity Baseball

The hot, burning sun shined down on the left fielder during the fifth inning. Why did they choose to stand in that kind of condition? "It's an important position. A lot of balls get hit out there so there is a lot of action," commented Junior Chris Cser. Whatever the reason, the 1988 Varsity Baseball players were out there giving it their all; hot weather or cold. Coach Dempsey commented about the goals for the team, "With a young team, seven juniors and two seniors starting, we have to play our best which could place us second or third." Idols may play a big part in how well team members perform. Junior Rich Gold says, "Mark Miguire is my favorite pro player because he is a good all-around baseball player."

Taking a swing, Junior Chris Corsaletti gives the team his best effort.

Without support from the dugout, homers, double plays and stolen bases wouldn't mean as much.

The team waits on the bench for their turn up to bat while stat keeper, Debbie La-vielle, checks the score book.

Freshman Billy Hamilton swings as the team looks on.

J.V. Baseball is a great sport for athletically inclined people. It demands strength and endurance. As with other sports, in baseball you must practice constantly to develop speed, agility and reflex. As a player constant attention must be paid to other players in order to anticipate their next move which may be directed toward you. "You gotta be alert, but have fun while you're out there. I really like running the bases," says Justin White. The team has been working very hard to improve and it's paying off in good plays. "You really have to pay attention when someone is yelling at you or you miss something. Baseball is a great experience," says Mark Gonsalves. The boys prepared for this season and are striving toward the development of a solid team for next year.

Varsity Softball

"I will never forget having to do the 'monster walk' at the first practice of the season," says Junior Tasha Leon. Other members of the team agreed that doing that exercise showed them how out of shape they were. The Mustang Varsity softball team practiced every day after school until 5:30 p.m. at the Senior Elementary School. This year's team was under the direction of a new coach, Ms. Julie Sierk. Coach Sierk has coached the JV softball team for four years, but moved up this year to the Varsity team, "As first year at Varsity, and especially with the character of this team, I've enjoyed the work. The team was willing to work and learn, plus they knew how to have fun." Junior Kim Harwood feels, "The team got along well, and I enjoyed playing shortstop."

J.V. Softball

Junior Varsity softball from the sidelines may seem like just running around bases and watching softballs go by, but there is more to it than that. Practice consisted of running laps, throwing, catching, and hitting balls sometimes in unbearable weather. But, would you believe that to learn to slide properly, players combine learning and fun by using the "slip and slide"? Team members will also remember the embarrassing moments in softball. Sophomore Monique Costick remembers, "When I stepped in a hole and flew over second base," as her most embarrassing moment. Sophomore Becky Davis said she won't forget, "When I had to go behind a truck to take my uniform pants off because I scraped my rear end." Besides those memories, many players will also include the long round trip bus rides for away games. What do they do to entertain themselves? Along with listening to the radio Freshman Ester Leon added, "I sit in the back of the bus and listen to varsity players tell jokes."

Freshman Kari Maggi pitches as Sophomore Shea Corsaletti catches in their game against Galt which was a victory.

Tennis

From Jungle ball and chokes to polyester sweats and aces, the Argonaut Tennis team kept in step. Traveling in the 'Tan Van' was considered a privilege according to Senior Kathy Zwack. "I especially enjoyed ratting Keith Ferrell's long, wavy hair and avoiding riding shotgun with Coach Cabri. Matches could be intense but Varsity player Senior Steve Voloder felt, "It's great to win but sometimes you just have to accept that you can't overhead slam it everytime." Members on the team get a shot at victory and defeat. Freshman Vanessa Byrd commented "If I didn't go out for tennis this year, I never would have had the opportunity to play 19,000 people at Folsom." Senior Laurie Miller recalled, "I've enjoyed my four years on Varsity tennis from riding shotgun in the 'Tan Van' to watching Michelle Gonsalves drive over the bucket of balls in her 'gray bomb'."

Argonaut tennis players Sophomore Bill Miller, Freshmen Matt Eary and Rick Meder and Seniors Chris Hall and Kathy Zwack prove that tennis is more than a spectator sport.

When Junior Tasha Paris was asked what she thought track involved she stated, "It's just running around in circles," and that may be how many students perceived track and cross country. These sports include much more. Cross country is strictly distance running, and track has six field events and three different distances of running. Practice was a combination of weight training, stretching, endurance running, and calisthenics. Freshman Ty Felkins commented about track, "I joined because I enjoy running, and the coaches and teammates make it fun and worthwhile." Senior Wendy Brown, a four-year track member, remarked, "Track has been a lot of fun. The people on our teams are always friendly and although it's tough some of my best high school moments were at track."

Argonaut High Band

Stepping High

One hundred and twenty strong, the Argonaut High marching and concert band has won many awards and recognition for being the "Pride of the Motherlode." Marty Everly sums up the feelings of many community members and students, "I think it's pretty awesome how a band from this size school can go to San Francisco and get second place compared to a band from a big school."

October 11, 1987, the unit put on their green and white uniforms for the first time this year to "Step High" in San Francisco. The usual trip of three hours took a little longer due to an unscheduled stop for some people who had too much liquid for their breakfast. The roar of the crowd as they played "California Here I Come" was enough to make the two hour route seem much shorter. After performing, the band was able to spend two hours of their time in "The City By The Bay." Most members stayed around Pier 39. The band, under direction of W.P. Hill, received a second place above many other high school bands. The Drum Major, Senior Julie Carrington, earned first place in the Senior Drum Major division.

In December the band changed into the equally famous concert band. They performed songs such as "American's We", "The Klaxon", and a medley from "The Music Man." In April they perform the annual Spring Concert.

Spring also brings parades. Parades in Lone, Sutter Creek, Sonoma, a new parade in Castro Valley and back to San Francisco for the St. Patrick's Day Parade. The band marched to "Battle Hymn" and performed a traditional crowd pleasing routine. "The PRIDE in the band is strong and especially when we march to 'Battle Hymn'," comments Junior Shari Hackim.

The Green and White shows San Francisco what they're made of while marching in the Columbus Day Parade.

Drum Major, Senior Julie Carrington, proudly leads the band down the streets of San Francisco as Sophomores Nathan Holmes, Steve Oneto, and Senior John Peters play on.

Show Band

"Tradition is the biggest part in Show Band. Everybody has their places and parts," states Senior Kevin Woodard. Show Band is comprised of thirty people whose interest in band goes beyond the average band student. When asked what appeals to her about Show Band, Senior Noele Richmond replied "The fact that everybody wants to be here so we work hard to sound good. That's what we want to accomplish." The group performs at football games, basketball games, and the Winter and Spring Concerts, at which the members have to deal with the girls changing in the cramped uniform room and the guys changing in the band room. But they have done it without incident. Freshman Mitch Davis says "Watching Show Bands in the past made me want to be a part of it." Performances such as at Amador, Bret Harte, and Calaveras High Schools, and at the newly restored Sutter Creek Theater gives the Show Band public support and region-wide recognition.

The Brass are living up to the word SHOW in Show Band.

Today Members Tomorrow Leaders

Future Business Leaders of America is an organization for students enrolled in business courses. Members of the club participate in professional, civic, service, social, and leadership projects. FBLA keeps occupied by making advent calendars for the patients at Amador County Hospital, attending state leadership conferences, and welcoming Freshmen with a BBQ at the beginning of the year. Junior Idalia Mendoza recalls a FBLA moment. "At a workshop, I won a LCD clock." Kathy Zwack sums up the meaning of the club bluntly stating "Business is Business."

Future Homemakers of America-Home Economics Related Occupations does many activities throughout the year. The most involved activity for the group is organizing the annual formal Christmas dance. FHA-HERO also sells Boo Grams during Halloween, prepare dinners for the football players and wrestlers, sells flowers for Valentine's Day, and does community work. Senior Nicki Brown is sincere when she explains "FHA is very dear to my heart and I'm glad to be a part of this organization."

Student Council

What Keeps Argonaut Organized

Student Council honored Pheona McDonough, our exchange student from Australia, who attended Argonaut for twelve months. Pictured are; Mr. Carder, Chris Hall, Laurie Miller, Pheona McDonough, Wendy Brown, Jeff Welch and Mr. Equino.

Student Council serves our school in many ways. The student officers attend many different school and league meetings. They organize rallies, decorate the classroom windows for the holidays, prepare teacher breakfasts, and they also schedule guest speakers for our student body. "Student Council is like a pickle, the more you chew on it, the more it remains the same," comments Senior Jeff Welch. "Actually, it's nothing like that. In the real world, it has made my senior year quite a bit more enjoyable."

Seniors Jeff Welch and Laurie Miller keep the Christmas spirit by decorating the office tree with a little help from Michele Roberts and Julie Zwack.

Block A

Athletes Of All Seasons

Block A is the athletic organization at Argonaut made up of athletes who have excelled in their particular sports. The purpose of Block A is to help establish athletic codes and to develop a genuine interest in all sports activities. Senior Karen Riddle thinks its great to be in the club although she recalls "I don't remember paying my dues since my Freshman year."

Key Club

A New Step for A.H.S.

This year a new club was formed at Argonaut High School. Our school is the first in Amador County to have a Key Club. Sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club, the club's aim is to develop initiative, leadership ability, and good citizenship. Junior Ed Speer comments. "It's great that we have a new club this year, it's a lot of fun."

The Canned Food Drive in December was a big success for Key Club, with AHS bringing in 2737 cans of food. Pictured around their success is Phyllis Smith, Mr. Davis, Tina Fancher, Ed Speer, Tom Swett and Jenni Hartnett. Journalism

Keeping Our School Informed

Our school paper, THE JOURNAL, is printed every Friday by the Journalism class. The class prepares our paper by thinking up new and interesting ideas for articles, typing, laying out prints, printing the final copies, and selling the papers to the students of Argonaut. It's a great class according to Toni Stillman. "I met a lot of people that I wouldn't have met if I hadn't joined." Senior Stacy Harty has learned a lot in the class but has had her share of problems. "I'm not sure how to handle it when someone erases your story for the next week."

Senior Heather Hunt carefully lays out copy for the next issue.

Agricultural Experts

Future Farmers of America is a leadership club for students interested in vocational agriculture. Members participate in activities to gain leadership. The club attends state and regional conferences, judges horses, takes field trips, and does community work. Junior Phyllis Smith enjoys the club although they have had a few miscalculations. "Once when we had a field trip planned, we showed up on the wrong day."

SKI CLUB

Take A Risk

Geared up, ready to attempt the dangerous slopes, ski club members make their way up to the snow packed mountains. Freshman Jerod Wurm skied "face first" when he tried to tackle a difficult bunny slope. "I had to get my stomach pumped for snow." This winter ski club traveled to Kirkwood, Boreal, Squaw Valley, and Utah. Senior Jane Selman remembers a tumbling moment. "At Kirkwood, I fell 50 feet off a ski jump." Members aren't always in the sun and snow though. Freshman Mark Gonsalves participated in an indoor club activity. "At Boreal, I got caught with the mirror playing cards with Mr. Whitaker."

Freshmen Shannon Brownlie, Erika Spingla, and Shannon White take a break from the slopes, and satisfy their appetite with Pringle's.

The California Scholarship Federation is an organization formed for students who excel in academic work. This year CSF has participated in preparing booklets on study habits and discussing the booklets with students. The group also saw a performance by the Capital City Ballet and traveled to San Francisco. According to Junior Shari Hackim, "The San Francisco trip is something to look forward to every year." Senior Marti Thompson recalls an embarrassing moment. "I just arrived at a meeting and it was already over." Senior Chris Hall shares his feelings about CSF saying, "I'm a nerd and PROUD OF IT."

Peer Counseling

With A Little Help From Friends

With everyday activities, people can become "stressed-out" and feel that they don't have anyone to talk to. That's one reason why Argonaut has a Peer Counseling group. To become a counselor, students must complete a year of Personal Psychology and fill out and turn in an application. In February, some members volunteered for the "Kids in Crisis" Hotline, which required the attendance of a one day workshop to learn how to handle situations that could arise while on the phone. Senior peer counselor Pam Cochran wasn't involved in any clubs until she joined peer counseling, "Not only do I feel good about helping others, but it helps me just as much."

Odyssey Of The Mind

More Than Mind Games

"You don't have to be a brain to join or compete in Mind Games," comments Sophomore Mike Bird. "Odyssey of the Mind" program is an international, creative problem-solving competition. It consists of three teams with six to seven members, each were coached by a volunteer. All teams had an opportunity to present their creative solutions at a Regional Competition scheduled for March 5th at Amador High School. On that date, teams from Region VIII covering El Dorado, Amador, Alpine, Calaveras and Tuolumne counties were represented. The winners then went to Fresno in April to compete in the State Finals.

AFS (American Field Service) is a club organized for foreign exchange students and for students to become better acquainted with the culture of other countries. "AFS has given me an experience which has really had an incredible impact on my life. After living for two months in Argentina, I wanted to continue this experience; therefore, my family took in Victor Montecinos from Chile. Both experiences can hardly be described, but they are extraordinary and can only be lived," said Senior Jeff Welch. Visiting Senior Victor Montecinos states, "I think this school is very interesting because I like to meet new people, live in a different culture and to learn a foreign language. The people are nice and I want to thank everyone for helping me this year. I'm never going to forget this year at Argonaut High School and in Jackson. Thank you for this wonderful year."

Putting The Steps Together

"When I signed up for yearbook I assumed that it would be a kick - back, easy class but what I didn't realize at the time is just how in depth it can be," said Junior Sheri Loomis. The putting together of a yearbook is much more work than you may think. As a staff we deal with writing interesting, fun copy and captions, being at every memorable moment to catch it in a photo for the book, making money so that we can have such things as color, and meeting stressful deadlines. Senior Rosemary Crews stated, "I enrolled in yearbook because I wanted to find out what it felt like to put together a book that people would read and I wanted to gain the experience of photography and writing copy." Senior Michelle Gonsalves said, "yearbook to me means stressful deadlines and getting rejected when trying to sell ads." We have had to learn responsibility, patience, to devote much time, and most of all to be able to work as a team. Junior, Shari Hackim remembers when Mrs. Banttari became teary-eyed when she told us how proud she was of us and how her speech emotionally affected Senior Dion Carney. Overall, yearbook class has proved to be more than just an average class. The staff has become closer and shared more stress, anger, and best of all the feeling of accomplishment. Mrs. Banttari says, "It's definitely been an unforgettable experience!"

The Yearbook staff: Dave Summers, Michelle Gonsalves, Dion Carney, Michele Roberts, Marty Everly, Shari Hackim, Heidi Hunt, Pheona McDonough, Rosemary Crews, Julie Carrington, and Sheri Loomis.

Drama was busy skillfully entertaining this year. In October they performed monologues, dialogues, and short skits. They made the students of Jackson and lone Elementary Schools laugh with THE WITCH THAT STOLE CHRISTMAS. Senior Tony Drehabl recalls an embarrassing stage moment. "I played Santa Claus during the Christmas play and my pillow fell out." In spring, the group performed ARSENIC AND OLD LACE. SPAM seemed to be the joke in drama this year. Senior Jeff Welch says drama is summed up in one word, SPAM, meaning Stage directing; Play writing, Acting, and Mind loss. Senior John Peters adds "Ad libbing is a beautiful art form. Long live SPAM!"

Ellie Prosser (Senior) dreams about what it would be like to be on a date with heavy metalist Clint Peters (Senior).

Homecoming 1987

Homecoming was a week of school spirit. Everybody displayed a great deal of character as well as spirit. The week started off with each day a different theme as shown below and we would dress up according to the theme. On Wednesday, we had a Senior slave day where you could buy your favorite Senior to be your slave for the day. Eddie Plasse and Davina Mondani were purchased for $25.00 each. Thursday night we had a downtown rally where the band entertained us with a few songs, the cheerleaders performed a routine and a cheer, and the football players were announced. The classes showed their enthusiasm by decorating floats: Seniors received first place; Juniors, second; Freshman, third; and Sophomores, fourth. This year student council chose to change tradition and have a king in the court. Through voting the student body selected the homecoming court, which was announced at the game.

What animal best describes you and why?

Wendy Brown, Senior: I'm a combination of a rabbit, laughing hyena, and frog. Because I've got big teeth, I laugh a lot, and I croak under pressure.

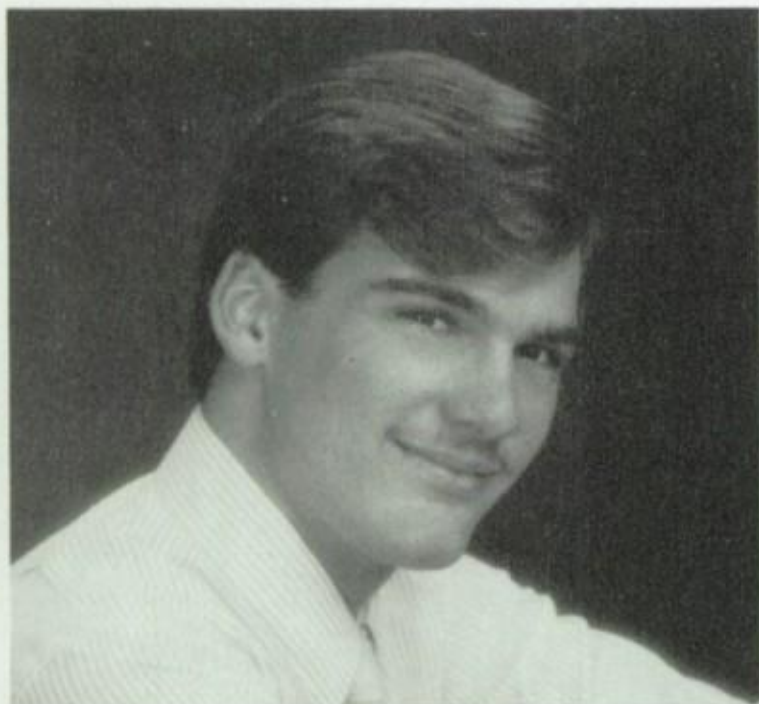

Teresa Stewart, Junior: A bear because I like to snuggle up in my bed and sleep my way through winter.

Darrel Byrd, Sophomore: A cat because they are loved by most girls.

Julie Hubbard, Sophomore: A bear because they're cute and cuddly.

Annette Spinetti, Sophomore: A peacock cause every color describes my personality.

What will you be doing in 10 years from now?

Julie Cranston, Senior: I will be a successful business woman in Germany with a husband and one child and very, very, well off!

Toni Stillman, Junior: Having my first wedding anniversary.

Jimmy Dominguez, Junior: Working at Round Table, someday I want to be manager (Ha Ha).

Demian Lindberg, Junior: I will either be playing pro football, in the Marines, or a lawyer.

Gary Thomas, Sophomore: Hopefully playing some type of sport either baseball or basketball.

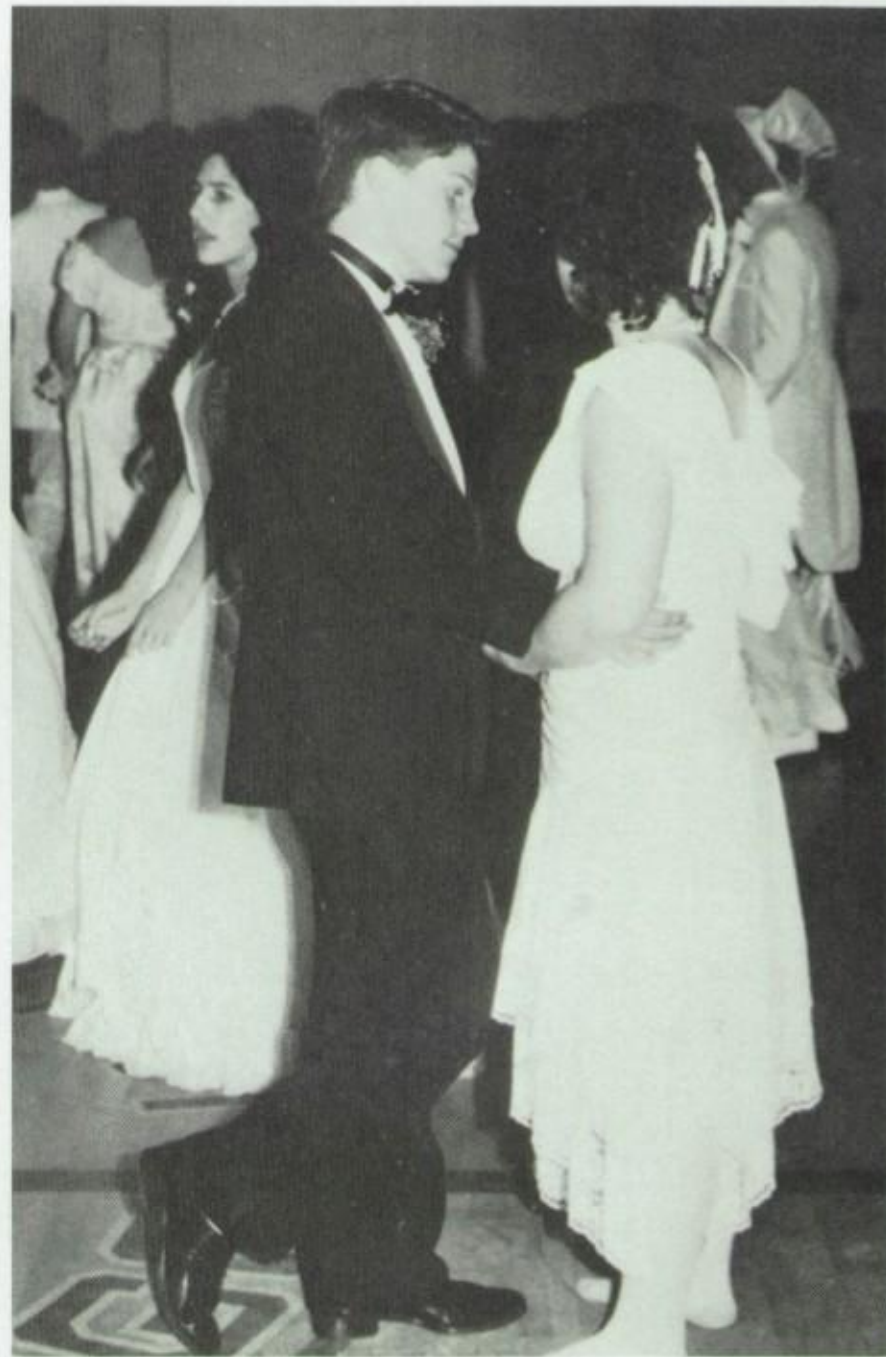

Robert Smith, Sophomore: Living in the Carribean and flying for the Navy.

Jenny Daniel, Sophomore: I will be in college.

Sunshine Wiebold, Freshman: Working and having fun.

Senior Doug Grandbois exquisitely dressed for the occasion with his date Jeannie Armstrong, and Senior Linda Gonzales are showing their moves for the camera.

A Christmas In Toyland

Christmas Dance December 12, 1987

Dancing has been a way to let out excitement, emotions and energy. Dancing has been with us for a long time. In the 50's there was music from Buddy Holly, Elvis, and Chuck Berry. In the 60's there were Bob Dylan, Jimi Hendrix, and The Who. Music of the 70's were the Rolling Stones, Bee Gee's, and Moody Blues. In the 80's there is music of many different styles. There are groups such as Miami Sound Machine, Whitesnake, Belinda Carlisle, and Pet Shop Boys. These are some of the groups we danced to at the Christmas Dance.

The Christmas Dance, which was held on Saturday December 12, 1987 in the gym, showed a lot of Christmas spirit at the school. The anticipation before Saturday was shared by all. The girls were making sure they had the right accessories to make them look and feel "special" for their date. The boys had to make sure they had their tuxedos, money for dinner, and make sure they were on their best behavior.

Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves. This year's Christmas Dance was definitely a hit! According to Senior Marty Everly "My highlight of the evening was eating dinner with Billy Hamilton and Melissa Steely at Buscaglia's." Senior Alicia Davis said, "Bartt Yochheim, Heather Hunt, Jeff Votaw and I won't forget the 1987 Christmas Dance because of "Bump and Run."

Senior Eddie Bonham and Junior Phyllis Smith, otherwise known as Eddieandphyllis, eat at a record pace in order to meet the 32-minute lunch deadline.

Stuffing their faces at the new Taco Bell were seniors Josh Wyckoff, Steve Voloder, and junior Bartt Yocheim.

It's 11:49 the eight-minute bell has just rung. From the silence of the classrooms you hear a loud whisper come from the mouth of Senior Syndi Smith, "Eight more minutes!"

Everyone is waiting in anticipation for their noon time break, while thoughts of whoppers and burritos dance in their heads.

Finally, the bell of freedom rings, and everyone is off to their destinations. Drivers, burdened by the underclassmen's famous question, "Can you take me out to lunch?" sneak off to the safety of their cars and make their getaway, while the underclassmen longingly look toward the parking lot, wishing to be a part of "the thing to do at lunch," not realizing the privileges they have yet to discover. When asked whether they have found any privileges here on campus, Sophomores, Robert Smith and Christine Cantrell states, "We feel sitting on the green grass at our school is a definite privilege in itself."

Chad Hansen (Sophomore) and Shannon Landis (Junior) take time out in P.E. to practice some fancy moves for the Friday night dance.

Do you dare flirt?

Daring Steps

FLIRTING - A fact of life. We all go through it everyday of our lives. For some people it helps them open up to their friends and for others it is a way of getting someone's attention. Whether it is a quaint little smile or a tap on the shoulder, it all comes across the same way.

Have you ever wondered how to get someone's attention? According to John Gunther (Sophomore), "I walk up and ask them their name." Bob Rogers (Senior) comments, "I flaunt my bod."

It's not just looks about someone; it can also be their personality.

Asking someone out to lunch everyday for a week can also be a sign of liking someone.

"What do you consider your best flirting asset?". Toni Stillman (Junior) replied, "My eyes". According to Danny Thompson (Sophomore), "It's my natural charm".

The majority of students ask for dates at school, then again some people can't make up their minds. Homer Daniel (Junior) says, "I ask them at school".

People take flirting different ways. Most of the time it is all in fun. Flirting for some is a way of life and for others it is a challenge.

Sharaine Ford (Junior) squeezes in to break up John Pendleton (Junior) as he uses his charm to persuade Lisa Hill (Senior) to go out to lunch.

Esther Leon (Freshman) engages in small talk to keep the attention of Sophomores Greg Null and Matt Havens.

An unusual look at transportation

Stepping On The Pedal

Transportation is defined as the act of transporting or state of being transported but to Argonaut students it is their life. It is a way to get to and from school and those ever so important extracurricular activities. Here on the campus of Argonaut High, students and teachers practice four kinds of transportation: foot power, catching the bus, their own set of wheels, and being chauffeured by parents.

Walking is probably the least popular of the four. Few students walk because not many live close by. Two of our teachers walk and Mr. Pretto stated, "I walk for health and happiness."

Transportation by bus is provided by the school and is very convenient for some students. On the other hand, there are students that would prefer not to as Dion Carney (Senior) summed up when he said, "Some nerds like me catch the bus."

Debbie LaVielle (Sophomore) is one of the many who is chauffeured to and from school by her mother. She says, "It's better than riding the bus."

Driving yourself and friends to school has to be the number one choice. Some students drive one of the family's cars as does Amy Smith (Junior). She drives one of their three family cars and says, "It's fine with me and it's no big problem." We also have many students who drive their own vehicles to school. DeDe Sorini (Senior) bought a Camaro because she has always wanted one. She stated, "It's awesome to own your own car because you have the power of freedom."

As you can see, stepping on the pedal is indeed an important part of Argonaut life.

Michele Roberts (Senior) has creatively shown senior spirit by painting her parking space with adorable teddy bears so that she has a personalized space for her 1978 Toyota Celica.

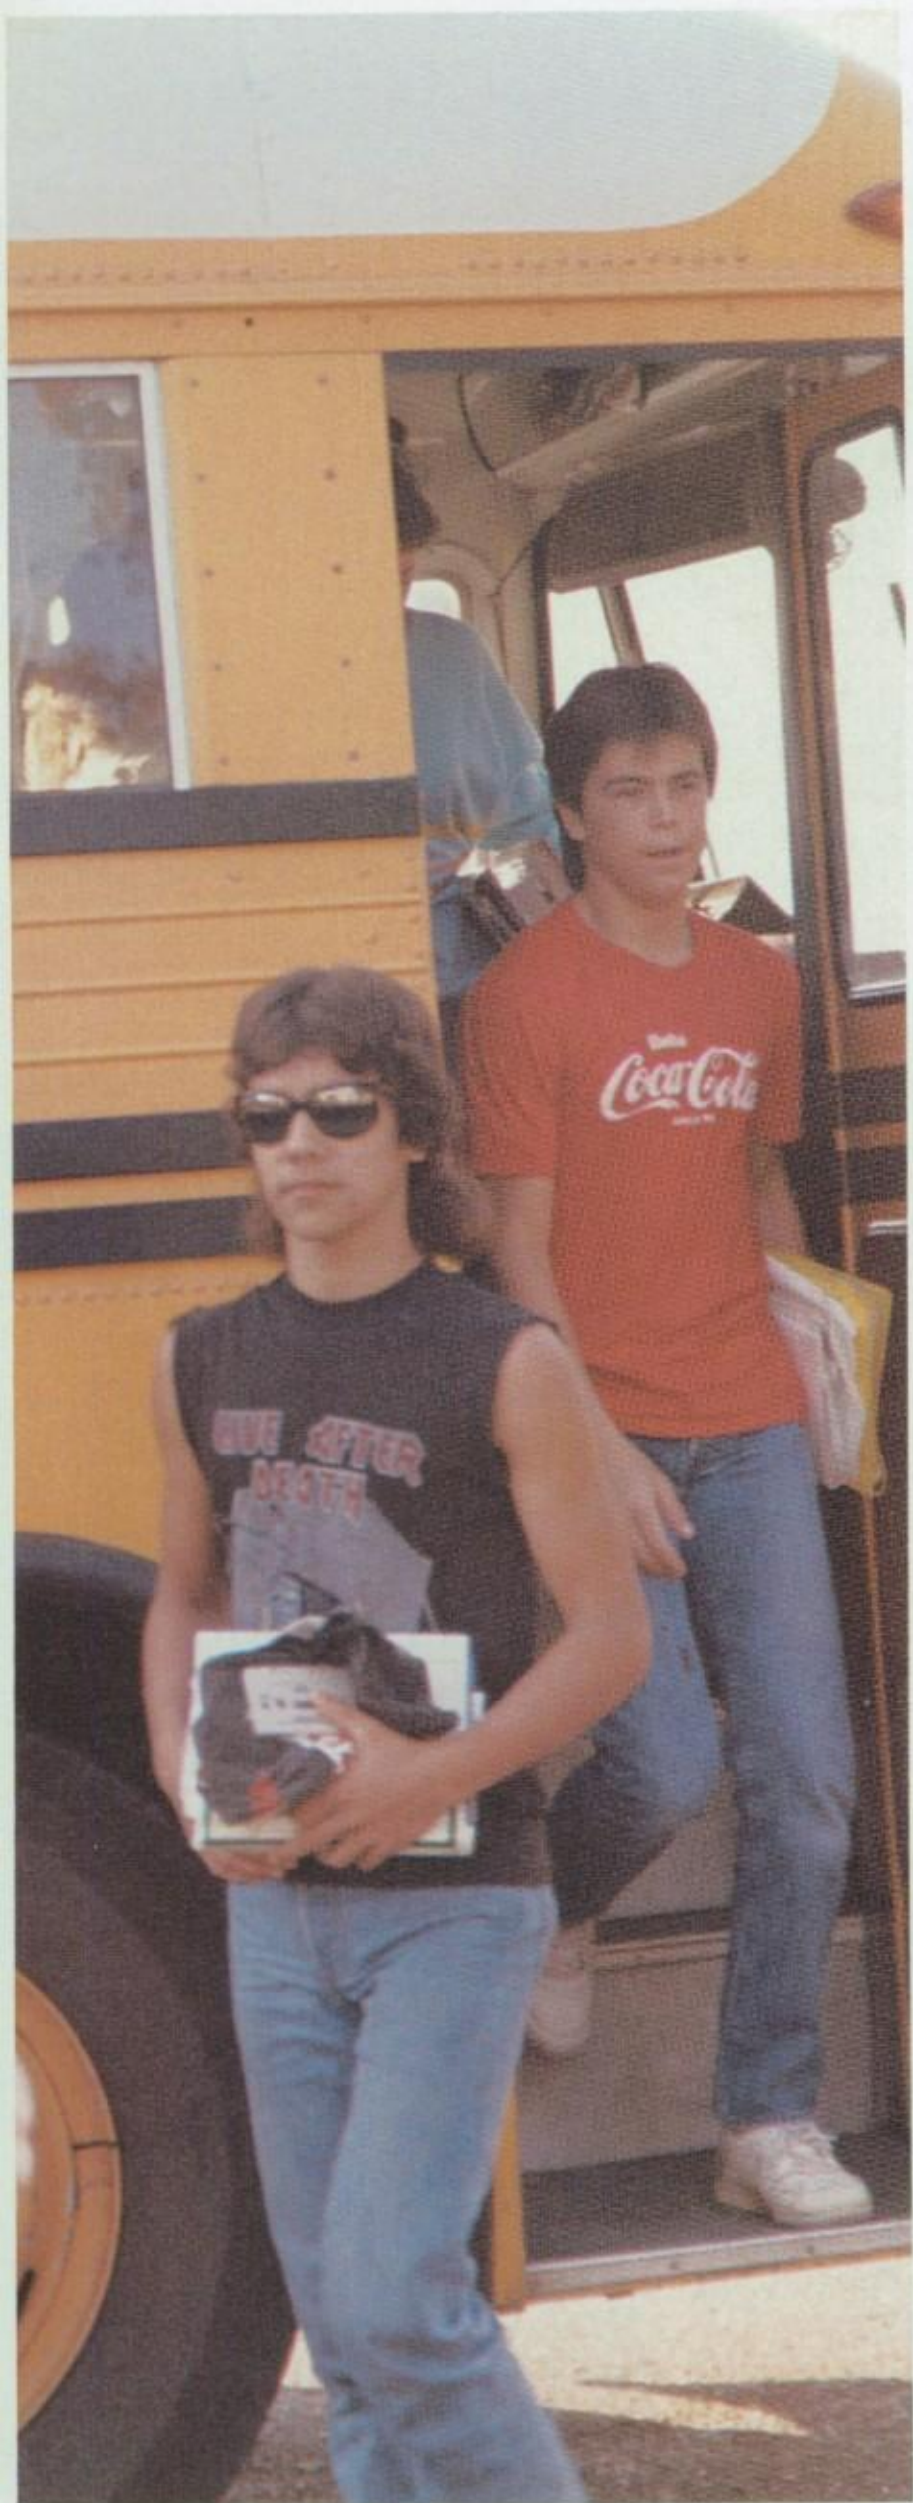

As noon time arrives Keith Ferrell (Junior) waits impatiently in his blue Nova with Jeff Welch (Senior) who is trying to move traffic along with his art of funny faces.

Mrs. Hill picks up her daughter Lisa Hill (Senior) and Sharaine Ford (Junior). Brenda Villa (Sophomore) also catches a ride to avoid riding the big yellow bus.

John DuBoise (Senior) is caught cautiously stepping into the student driver car as Jeremiah Johnson (Freshman) seats himself comfortably behind the steering wheel preparing for a "joy ride"!

It's either hoofin' it or bussin' it for Aaron Smallenberger (Sophomore) and Herman Gonzales (Freshman), and they've obviously chosen the easy way out by riding the bus.

Believe it or not, Derrick Smith (Junior) does have his driver's license but may be found sometimes walking to school from his new residence here on Argonaut Lane.

Cory Samprucci (Senior) finds that having his own set of wheels makes it easier and more tempting to leave school when he desires.

It looks as if Billy Slone (Sophomore) and Boyd Warren (Senior) are holding up the 3:14 rush hour with an exciting game of Chinese Fire Drill.

Stepping Behind The Scenes

An inside look at Argonaut's athletes

Tension is in the air. The crowd rises to their feet to cheer on Junior Drew Johnson as he nears the goal line. He makes the touch-down and the Argonaut fans go wild. Drew comments on how he feels when he scores, "It's the best. I feel like I'm invincible." Athletes prepare themselves for games mentally in different ways. When asked what special thing he does, Junior Bartt Yocheim says, "I sit down quietly and collect my thoughts."

The purpose of our cheerleaders is to get the crowd to cheer on and encourage our athletes. But does it help? Do they even hear their shouts of "Mustangs #1" or "Go big green"? "I usually don't hear the crowd or the cheerleaders," states Freshmen Mitchell Davis. On the other hand, Sophomore Becky Davis comments that she does hear the crowd, but they make her a little nervous.

So what drives our athletes to play sports? Why do they do what they do? "I play volleyball because it is an exciting, competitive sport, and a good chance to be together with my friends," says Senior Wendy Brown.

Like everything else, being an athlete has its ups and its downs. There are those times when being an athlete isn't all it's cracked up to be. "The worst part of being an athlete is all the pressure I'm under to do a good job," says Sophomore Gary Thomas. But there are those times to be proud to play on one of Argonaut's teams. Senior Bobby Rogers sums it up best when he says, "The best part of being an athlete is knowing that you did your best."

Steppin' Into Style

Why is everyone dressing the way they are?

Did you ever wonder why everyone is wearing what they are this year? In a fall edition of The Sacramento Bee Magazine, Sacramento's fashions were described as anywhere from casual to chic. Counselor, Mrs. Davis dresses for both comfort and professionalism while freshman Melissa Berrens dresses to look stylish and cute but most of all to please herself.

Mini skirts seem to really be a "hot" item among the girls this year. Whenever senior Dion Carney sees a girl in a mini skirt his first reaction is WOW! This is also true for the girls when they see a guy in a pair of those tight fitting ever-so-fashionable Levi 501 jeans. Tee shirts with catchy words such as GOTCHA, HOBIE, CORONA BEACH PARTY, SPUDS, AND GUESS, just to name a few, seemed to be real popular among everyone.

When junior Genny Howe was asked why she dressed the way she does she answered, "Because I'm Genny Howe and that's the way I am!" Freshman Jerrod Wallace isn't sure why he dresses the way he does.

The most noticeable trendy look for guys at Argonaut this year is rolling the cuff of their pants. While the most noticeable trend for girls is basically straight hair with curled bangs. Another really popular item among both guys and girls was the "acid-washed" look along with high tops and colored (bleached) hair.

To senior Jane Selman, comfort plays a big role in the way she dresses. Sophomore Kim Sofie says, "I like to wear what I like and what makes me comfortable." Junior Denise Hooe says that she dresses the way she does because "He" told her to. Junior Sharaine Ford chooses the way she dresses to be different.

So, if you've been wondering why everyone is dressing the way they are just remember that clothes, it's been said, make the man.

The girls and their ever-changing hair-styles.

Juniors Marvin McClure and Brad Wiebold are surely steppin' into style along with senior Alex Riddar.

Comfort is the style all around for the guys.

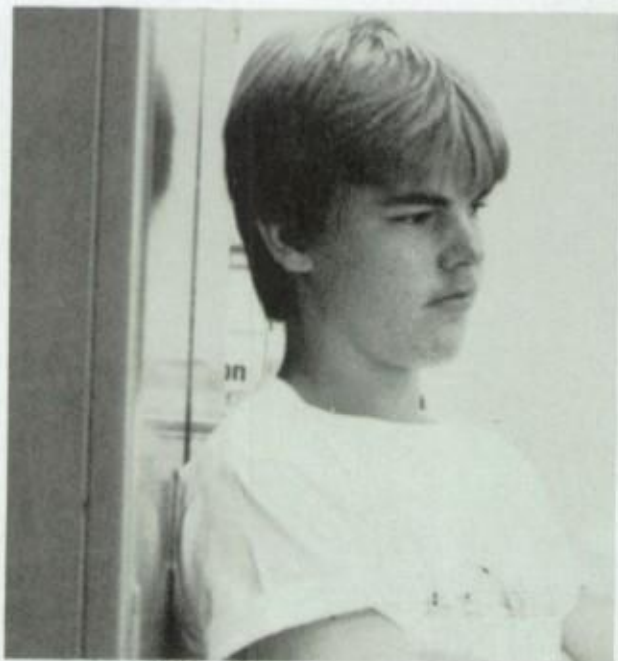

Fashion is very noticeable on the Argonaut campus.

Senior Steve Voloder takes a break at his locker as he decides if he should attend class.

A Step Inside

Lockers

Lockers - where students spend a small but important amount of time. After all, books are kept in lockers and everyone needs books to learn. Did you ever wonder what is really behind those rectangular, green metal doors?

According to Sophomore Luke Womack, he keeps spoiled snack shack food in his locker. Junior Sheri Loomis has a problem with pudding cups in her locker. "I usually have a huge lunch so by the time I get around to eating my pudding I'm full."

Sophomore Stephanie Gasaway has pictures of her boyfriend and her best friend taped on her locker walls. Maybe Senior Julie Cranston should trade lockers with Heidi Hunt since Julie reports, "I don't even have a locker" and Heidi says her locker contains "zip."

Sometimes lockers can be a lot of trouble. There are all sorts of things that can go wrong with a locker that can be quite embarrassing. Occasionally, it's just the person that makes the mistake. Lisa Hill and Julie Zwack had similar problems with their lockers. Lisa comments "I was having a hard time opening my locker when I realized it wasn't even mine." Julie's face turned a bright shade of red when she tried to open her locker from her Junior year. "The real owner looked kind of shocked when she saw me trying to open her lock."

Junior Matt Gomez feels a bit uncomfortable everytime he gets his books out of his girlfriend's locker. "She has pictures of men in small swimsuits plastered everywhere."

Every student needs a place to keep his books and lockers seem to be the clear choice.

Freshman Sam Caldera has a hard time getting a grip on his books.

Stepping Out For Fun

At Argonaut studying isn't everything. Many students have outside interests and hobbies which take time, effort, and money. For Juniors Jeff and Jerry Gold rodeo is their outside interest. Jerry says, "It's not something everyone wants to do. Money is involved. I have met a lot of life-time friends competing." Jeff adds, "It's a natural high especially when the horse bucks. It scares me before I get on them, but when I'm up there it's awesome."

Shooting and hunting are special interests for Junior, Jr Honorado. He has a great time just shooting his shotgun blowing away bottles and cans. Senior, John Duboise likes to go hunting for a good time and to hopefully get a deer for a trophy.

Senior Kim Mann has competed in two Miss California Empire Pageants. She commented, "I met new friends, learned more about myself, and had a lot of fun. At first I was a little nervous but I soon forgot about being nervous in all the excitement."

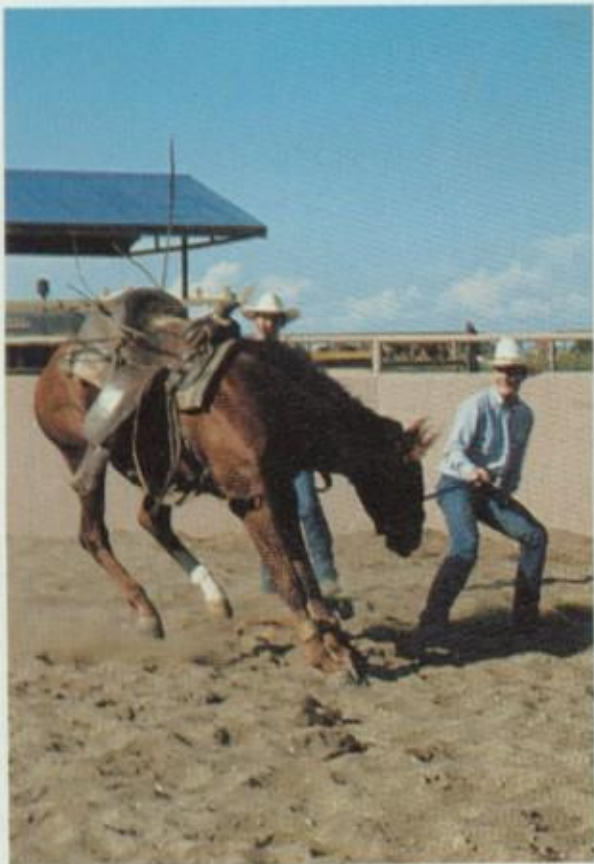

Senior Kim Mann responds to her pageant question while competing in the Petite Miss California Empire Pageant.

Junior Jerry Gold and Jeff Gold work as a team to get ready for the big rodeo.

Junior Jr Honorato uses his spare time to improve his already-excellent shooting skills with his twelve-gauge shotgun.

Junior Jeff Gold spends long hard hours on the weekend preparing for an upcoming rodeo competition.

Senior Lisa Hill selects another rock magazine to add to her collection. Rock magazines display the latest rock groups and their current status in the Top Ten.

Kathy Hendricks (Senior) speculates on the idea of what style looks best while she misses first and second periods deciding.

A bit of leg, a bit of chest, this is how Ed Plasse (Senior) sleeps in late the best. His excuse for being late to class was, "But, I was sick."

Seniors Steve King and Chris Grijalva stop at Hillcrest after band for a nutritional breakfast of chocolate cupcakes and Pepsi.

On the way to school, Homer Daniel (Junior) and a few friends were supposedly having car trouble.

Stepping Out Of Class

Mustangs going out to roam the pasture! Is this another way of describing students who are "stepping out of class?"

Year after year students bring excuses to Argonaut High as to why they're skipping classes. The most popular excuse being the one about being sick and condemned to bed.

After being questioned, David Drain (Sophomore) says, "I usually go home from school with the excuse that I'm sick, but I actually go out and go cruising."

Nicky Emery (Senior) comments, "When I forget to do my homework for a class, I go home and tell my mom that I'm sick. While I'm at home I play with my cat, Max, and watch Days of our Lives."

For students who cannot present an excused absence slip to their teacher, Mr. Equinoa sends out his personal invitation for the student to enjoy his presence in his office. A cozy conversation follows. Then, like a judge, a personalized signature upon a pink slip is issued declaring the accused guilty or not guilty of cutting class. If they are excused from their absence they are let loose; however, punishment follows those who are unexcused. Probably they're thrown into the detention cell for a few days to mellow out.

We ask, "Is cutting school and classes worth it?"

In reply: Julie Cranston (Senior) says, "It is if you have a test, but in a way it's not because it's the pits having to make up all of the work."

Frank Weldon (Junior) says, "Not if you get in trouble for it. You have to be slick and know how not to get caught. You have to know the rules and how to bend them. If you go to a dance club, such as Club Can't Tell, the night before then it is worth it because you can't go to school after a night like that."

But being sick isn't the only reason for cutting class! After asking some students it was discovered many good and bad excuses have been given. These include ones' such as: car trouble, house was on fire, Doctor's appointment, the alarm didn't go off and I missed my bus, mom and dad were yelling at me, death in the family, out of town, was on vacation, flat tire, and the list goes on. The excuses get better as the years go by.

Students, at the beginning of the year, had resolved to buckle down and study; however, they soon decided that there were better things in life to do than sit in the classroom and be lectured by some teacher so why be there when you could be out having fun? Worry about the consequences later!

After the sixth outfit Kim Haggart (Senior) still couldn't decide what to wear and was tardy to her first class.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The yearbook staff of 1987-1988 would like to thank the following people: Laurie Miller of the Amador Dispatch who helped us obtain newspaper photographs, Rosemary Crews for the art work on the title and closing pages of our book, to the Senior Class for contributing $100.00 for the Senior Class picture to be in color, and to the staff and administration for their support and understanding when we needed class time to meet a deadline or take photographs. A very special thanks to Josten's Representative Deardra Miller. Deardra helped us through many frustrating and confusing deadlines. She made putting a yearbook together fun. Her enthusiasm rubbed off on all of us the first day she stepped into the classroom. We the yearbook staff of 1987-1988 not only consider Deardra a staff member, but we also consider her a great friend.

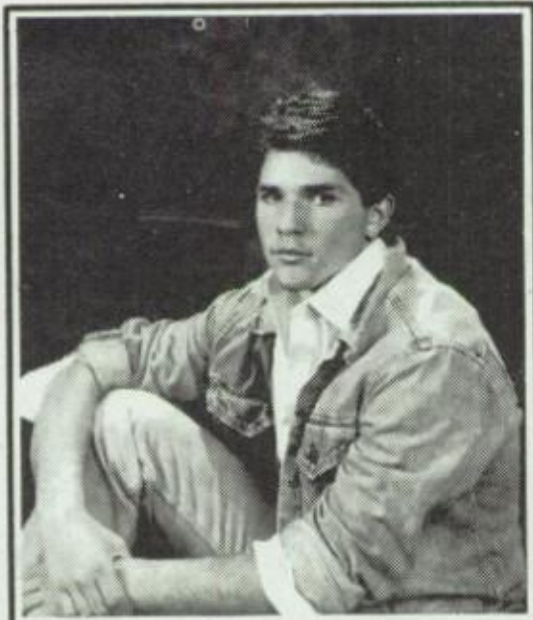

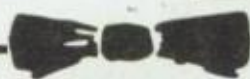

The Yearbook Staff of 1987-1988

Jostens Printing and Publishing of Visalia, California, printed the 1987-88 Argonaut High Yearbook. With the assistance of Josten's Representative Deardra Miller and Adviser Mrs. Banttari of eleven students completed the 128 page book which features a sixteen page color section. All type is set in Avante Garde and printed on 80-pound paper. At a cost of twenty-five dollars to seniors and twenty-two dollars for underclassmen, no profit was realized by the sale of two hundred and seventy-five copies. The additional necessary funds were raised through the sale of advertising and fundraisers. Twelve complimentary copies were given to the school board members, superintendent, AHS main office, AHS counseling office, AHS library, and Amador County Library.
